

Affidavit for Bad Debt Loss — Supplier

Reference SDCL 10-47B-133

Explanation

Any licensed supplier may apply for a refund of fuel taxes paid on gasoline, gasohol, undyed diesel fuel sold to a customer who fails to remit payment for such fuel. However, a supplier may collect this refund for a specific customer only once every three years. After submitting this affidavit, the supplier becomes responsible for fuel taxes due on future sales to the same customer.

Once the Department of Revenue receives this affidavit, it will notify all licensed suppliers and marketers that:

- the customer has been delinquent in the payment of fuel taxes
- the customer is no longer entitled to delay payment of taxes to any supplier for the following three years
- no further tax refunds will be paid to suppliers or marketers who sell fuel to this customer for a three-year period

To qualify for this refund, the supplier must provide the Department with sufficient written evidence to justify the claim and to enable the Department to collect payment from the delinquent customer.
